

MARTIN HUXFORD

BREUER 6-ARM CHANDELIER

Architectural, linear and modernist in style, the Breuer Chandelier Collection wears its innovative structure on the outside, like a refined Lloyds building, or the iconic Pompidou Centre. Martin traces his original inspiration even earlier, to the iconic Wassily chair design by Bauhaus legend Marcel Breuer. The result is a uniquely elegant architectural chandelier, with a formal linear grid structure, emboldened with decorative flourishes of solid brass links and fabric. The Breuer Chandelier is a celebration of elegant masculine style, and whilst the inside-out grid system evokes modern urban architecture, the overall structure of the Breuer chandelier is very classical. The symmetrical design mimics the elegant harmony of a traditional chandelier, complete with decorative formal fabric shades and solid brass decorative touches.
